Rebbetzin Chaya Mushka

The Rebbetzin
The great leader of the Jewish people in the 20th century was a woman.

Rebbetzin Chaya Mushka Schneerson, of right-most memory, led an intensely private life. "Very few people knew about the relationship that I had with the Rebbe," said a close friend, Mrs. Lina Rosen, who knew the Rebbetzin since the 1960s and spoke to her by phone at least once a week. "I think that was one of the strengths of the relationship. It was totally private."

Although bits and pieces of details of the Rebbetzin's personal life have leaked out through the years, the consensus is that it was her will to remain out of the spotlight that saved it. It was not until her death in 1998 that they realized the Rebbetzin's life. The Rebbetzin, the Schneerson, of rightmost memory, shared, and the extraordinary sacrifices she willingly made to facilitate the Rebbe's devotion to the Jewish people.

The Rebbetzin was a diligent student of Jewish thought, and a woman of deep faith and devotion. She was one of the Rebbetzin's confidantes in the world.

She, despite her extraordinary role, was as much a woman as the public. She was a mother and a wife, and her role was to help the Rebbe in his mission. She was a woman of deep faith and devotion.
